About Liam

U17 Male Field Assistant Coach

Liam McCann is a fourth-year student at the University of Alberta studying philosophy with a focus that includes theology. He has competed in collegiate field lacrosse across the United States, beginning at Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina before transferring to Chestnut Hill College in Philadelphia and later playing at Salisbury University in Maryland. In addition to his field lacrosse experience, Liam has played box lacrosse in Alberta with the Blues, the Miners, and most recently the Sr. B Outlaws.

Outside of academics and lacrosse, Liam enjoys building computers, gaming, and exploring strategy-based hobbies such as Dungeons & Dragons. He is also passionate about music, cooking, and thoughtful discussion. Last year, he competed as the ADC for the University of Alberta's League of Legends Esports team, adding competitive gaming to his diverse range of interests.
