

RED DEER MINOR HOCKEY

I've been a lifelong hockey enthusiast whose passion for the game began in minor hockey in Barrhead Alberta. Growing up in a small town, I learned the importance of teamwork, dedication, sportsmanship, and community involvement through countless hours spent at arenas.

Hockey has played a significant role in shaping my life, teaching me lessons that have carried over both personal and professional parts of my life. This is where I believe the game of hockey provides young athletes with opportunities to develop confidence, leaderships skills, and lifelong friendships.

I'm proud to have been involved with minor hockey and appreciate the positive impact that coaches, volunteers, and community members have on young athletes. Minor hockey goes beyond the wins/loses, it's about building character, creating memories, and helping young people develop skills that will benefit them throughout their lives.

So many memories with Red Deer Minor Hockey, from the morning practices, standing behind the bench watching the players interact with each other and coming off the ice with huge smiles on their faces but for me my favorite memory is the way a community can come together when in need. My family will be forever grateful for this.

The future looks bright for RDMHC, there have been so many success stories around so many teams within RDMHC. There are the tournament wins, league banners, provincial banners, National banners, and the list can go on. There is also success off the ice, I've seen more and more teams getting involved within our community in food drives, helping at the food bank, helping at the Ronald McDonald House, and senior homes. Sponsorships around the rinks and on the back of jerseys seem to be at a high demand, businesses want to be involved and support our community. There are so many great parts of Red Deer Minor Hockey that are positive and that's why the future looks bright.

RED DEER MINOR HOCKEY

I bring a strong combination of business, community, and hockey-parent perspectives to the board of directors. I have over 20 years of business and sales experience, a strong background in relationship building, strategic thinking, and customer service, along with a passion for youth hockey and community involvement. I believe in teamwork, accountability, and creating positive experiences for players and families. My goal would be to help Red Deer Minor Hockey to grow, strengthen community partnerships, and provide opportunities for young athletes to develop both on and off the ice.
