

RED DEER MINOR HOCKEY

My name is Peter Entz, and I am the President of Predator Drilling Inc. here in Red Deer. Professionally, I lead a team-focused organization where accountability, structure, and strong governance are critical to success. I bring that same disciplined, practical approach to my volunteer work. I have been involved with Red Deer Minor Hockey for the past three years as a member of the Board of Directors, including the last two years serving as President. During that time, I have focused on strengthening governance, improving communication, and building a more consistent and accountable organization for our players, families, and volunteers. I am seeking to continue serving on the Board because I believe RDMH plays an important role in our community—not just in developing hockey players, but in shaping young people through teamwork, respect, and discipline. I am committed to ensuring the association continues to operate with clarity, fairness, and long-term sustainability. As a hockey parent with two sons in the program, I also value the experience from the family perspective. One of my favourite memories is watching the growth in both confidence and teamwork in the kids over a season—those moments reinforce why the work we do at the Board level matters. It is a privilege to contribute, and I would welcome the opportunity to continue serving.

The future of Red Deer Minor Hockey is strong, and I believe we are on the right path. We have a dedicated leadership group focused on delivering a positive experience for all athletes, and that is something I am proud to be part of. Looking ahead, continued growth through the inclusion of neighboring communities will strengthen our association and expand opportunities for players. With that growth, it will be important to maintain consistency, structure, and a high standard of experience across all divisions. A key focus should remain on enhancing our house league programs, ensuring they are inclusive, well-organized, and development focused. At the same time, we will continue to build and refine our high-performance streams, where we are seeing progress and success. Balancing these areas is critical to serving all athletes effectively.

There is still meaningful work ahead in the pursuit of excellence. As the game continues to evolve, RDMHC must remain adaptable and forward-thinking. By staying grounded in our core values and committed to continuous improvement, I am confident we will continue to grow as a strong and respected organization.

I bring a combination of executive leadership experience and a strong commitment to community that I believe adds value to the Board. Professionally, as President of Predator Drilling Inc., I am responsible for strategic planning, financial oversight, and organizational performance. This has developed my ability to make disciplined decisions, manage risk, and ensure accountability. I have experience in governance, budgeting, and building structured processes that support consistency and long-term sustainability—skills that are directly applicable to Board leadership. I also take a practical, solutions-focused approach. I am comfortable working through complex issues, aligning teams around clear priorities, and ensuring initiatives are executed effectively. Personally, I value accountability, respect, and teamwork, and I approach Board service with a collaborative and balanced mindset. As a hockey parent with two sons in the program, I understand the importance of delivering a fair, structured, and positive experience for all players and families. Overall, I believe my ability to provide structure, clarity, and follow-through—while remaining approachable and team-oriented—allows me to contribute meaningfully to the continued success of RDMHC.
